

Family Contact Card Planner

A quick worksheet to choose what belongs on your page, where the card will live, and who will keep the route current.

Keep this sheet blank of real contact details. Use it to plan categories and responsibilities, then enter approved information only in the page service your household chooses.

1. Name the page owner

Who will review and update the linked page when a phone number or instruction changes?

Owner role (not a personal number):

Review date or reminder:

2. Choose information categories

☐ Primary household contact route

☐ Alternate contact route

☐ Short practical household instruction

☐ Where current instructions are maintained

☐ Other: _____

3. Pick a known location

☐ Wallet ☐ Vehicle ☐ Home location ☐ Other: _____

4. Test the route

☐ A compatible phone opens the intended page.

☐ The intended reader can reach it with the expected device, network, and sign-in.

☐ The page owner and next review date are clear.

Keep urgent contacts and official instructions available through the channels your household already relies on. This NFC card is a route to a page you choose. It does not call for help, send alerts, locate anyone, verify identity, or replace local emergency procedures. Avoid putting sensitive medical, financial, identity, or location details on a page intended for broad access.
